How will you personally respond the next time you witness somebody being treated with disrespect? You have a choice. Will you be a Passive Bystander or a Pro-Active Ally?

Do you ever stand by silently when you feel you should speak up? If so, your silence hurts.

Ouch! Your Silence Hurts continues the conversation that Ouch! That Stereotype Hurts started. Ouch! Your Silence Hurts delves more deeply into the pivotal role of the bystander and how you and others can become active allies.

This program is even more compelling than the first Ouch! We anticipate that Ouch! Your Silence Hurts will inspire conversations beyond the training room. Here are some of the comments from those who have already seen the video.

“I have one word, FABULOUS!!! This video gives real, gut-wrenching examples of individuals and situations. Most important, it challenges people and gives them the idea that they have the ability to confront stereotypes by showing them how. Ouch! will be so helpful because most people want to do something, but don’t know what or how.”

“You know we love your first Ouch! That Stereotype Hurts video. Your new one is ten times better! My assistant had tears in her eyes. You nailed it with showing the impact of staying silent.”
